STUDENTS LEARNING COMPETENCY ASSESSMENT

Student's learning competency assessment is one of the important academic activities followed at Garden City University. The learning competency assessment helps the course instructors, class teachers, and heads of the department to design strategies to fulfill the learning needs of fast learners, moderate learners, and slow learners. Although the conduct of classes for all the students is common, additional learning assistance is provided for three types of learners groups. For example, fast learners are provided with additional/advanced study materials, moderate learners are provided with the opportunity to meet the course instructors for clarifying doubts/ seek learning assistance, and special classes are organized for the slow learners. EXTENSION ACTIVITIES

Terrace Gardening

The department of life sciences organized a workshop on Terrace Gardening for the people in the neighbouring areas of the University on the 15th of February 2020.

The programme was conducted as an initiative to promote gardening among the public. The limitation of land area in every household has been a challenge for anybody interested in gardening. Terrace gardening is a novel concept for those interested in gardening. By this mode of gardening one could develop not only greenery around which provides fresh air, but also grow their own vegetables and fruits which are purely organic.

The workshop had participants from over 50 households in and around the campus. The workshop was organized in co-ordination with horticulturists from Lalbagh who gave the necessary inputs to the people on the entire concept. The sessions involved demonstration of the steps that are involved in creating a terrace garden from scratch. Every participant was given free saplings of ornamental plants and seeds. There was a sale of grow bags, seeds and various tools that could help anyone to commence a process of gardening at home.

Medicinal plants gardening training:

Plants are the best source of medicines and every plant is surely known to be of some medicinal value. The University has a well-maintained medicinal plant garden which has been managed by the department of life sciences.

The department had organized a training on medicinal plants for the general public on account of the Global Wellness day on 13th June 2019. Experts from the horticultural department as well as experts from the field of Unani medicine sensitized the participants on the various types of easily available medicinal plants which can be grown in every household and also encouraged them to grow these plants in their homes as easy remedies for some of the common ailments. Few of the common medicinal plants that are grown in the medicinal garden are Rosemary, Lavender, Aloe Vera, Thyme, Celery, Sunflowers, Tulsi. It was a very informative and enlightening session. Saplings of medicinal plants were distributed free to all symbolic to the Global Wellness day. The training had participants from school students in the vicinity of the University campus, participants included general public from the neighbourhood. Over all there were 200 participants.

Promotion to exercise Electoral Franchise

The school of media studies took the onus of spreading awareness in the vicinity of the campus to make people exercise their franchise during the Lok Sabha elections scheduled in the 3rd week of April 2019. The media students created a questionnaire that would elicit response from the general public in terms of whether they would exercise their franchise in the forthcoming elections. The team of students were divided into four categories in order to interview people who would speak in Kannada, English, Hindi and Telugu as the demography around the campus had people speaking these languages. There was a mixed response from the general public. The response from the general public was made into a three minutes video with voice over done in Kannada, English, Hindi and Telugu. The same was promoted on social media and evoked a good response. The students had the opportunity to showcase the video to the sitting MLA and the corporators of the opposition party. These entire activities reached out to more than 300 households in and around the vicinity of the campus.

Computer and Internet Usage Basic Training:

As a part of the University Social Responsibility (USR) activities, Garden City University facilitated extension activities like training school students on Usage of Computer and Basic training on Internet Usage. The School of Computational Sciences and Information Technology identified 2 schools near to the campus - Shishu Mandir and Government Primary School, Mandur. The Department of Computer Science organized a 2-day workshop for the school students enabling them to get an awareness on the basic usage of internet and how to access online study materials for their education.

The team conducted a general awareness session for the teachers of both the school on the usage of banking applications like Googlepay and PhonePay. This enabled the teachers to get an awareness on Cashless wallet. The workshop was conducted on 16-July 2019 at Shishu Mandir and on 17-July-2019 at Government School, Mandur. The students and the teachers of both the schools appreciated the efforts taken by Garden City University.

Coping with stress and developing adversity quotient

As a part of the extension activities under the School of Social Sciences, the Department of Psychology conducted a 2-days counselling session at Garden City University on 26th & 27th August 2019. The counselling session was mainly focused on students who attempted their competitive examinations and were not able to make it. Mr. Rajesh Fernando, Value Communicator, was invited on both the days. There was a great turnout of students rural and urban schools who attended the programme. This counselling session was a great sigh of relief to the students who attended the same. They realized the different career opportunities which they had never thought of till then. Parents acknowledged this great event conducted by the University as they could see smiling faces of their wards. They were enlightened about various career opportunities that they could not even dream of till then.

Parents requested the University to conduct such events in future as well.

Teen health and Encouraging healthy practices among teen through Teenathon

Teenagers are the most vulnerable in the society with the advancement of technology especially the screen time being the killer. Obesity is also a major problem with teens not exercising and continuously bingeing on junk food. Garden City University as a part of its social responsibility conducted a half marathon run exclusively for the teens on 10th November 2019. As an incentive, teens who participated in the run were given a free entry if accompanied by a parent which was also to promote camaraderie between the parent and the teenager. Over 550 participants flooded the main road in front of the campus on the Sunday morning exhibiting their racing skills. The half marathon route crisscrossed six villages and a portion of forest land making the run very scenic and adventurous. With 65 medical volunteer from the physiotherapy department, 82 NSS volunteers and 40 management trainees to assist the runners, the event was well appreciated and perhaps could achieve its objective of inculcating a healthy habit among teenagers.

Jute bag making training workshop

Department of Fashion and Apparel Design organized a one-day jute bag making training workshop on 7th February 2020 for the lady homemakers from Kithaganur village area. The training program covered brief introduction on different designs of jute bags, selection of raw material, material use of different sizes, preparation of utility items like marketing bags, ladies bags and use of matching colour on the jute product. This skill development program was designed to help elicit entrepreneurial aspiration among the attendees to set up jute manufacturing units.

Annual Report 2019-2020

Through the workshop, people were made aware about the usage of jute bags, e.g., for shopping purpose, travel purposes, as laptop bags, document folder, etc. The workshop also emphasized on the fact that, since the required machineries and raw materials used for its manufacture are easily available from indigenous sources and as not much technology is involved, factories can also be established easily anywhere. The objective of the workshop was successfully achieved as many of the participants wanted more detail regarding setting up of jute manufacturing factories, government concession and regulations.

Kadima Belle- Arogaya Karwatha Jeevana Paniya

The concept of Kadima Belle- Arogaya Karwatha Jeevana Paniya is to train the N.S.S. Volunteers to use the locally available medicinal plants and flowers and create a healthy beverage by using those plants and flowers. This skill development workshop includes usage of hibiscus flower, mango leaves, guava leaves, punnai flowers, basil seeds, and tulsi to create healthy and tasty beverages. Hibiscus flower is rich in Vitamin-C, Mango leaves are rich in antioxidant and anti-viral properties and considered to cure diabetes, Guava leaves, and Punnai flowers also have similar properties. The advantage of using locally available medicinal plants and flowers includes better health and wellness, cost-effectiveness, and utilization of the freely/easily available resources. The bio-diversity of India favours the experimentation of the above concept. The N.S.S. volunteers have understood the concept of Low Cost- Locally Available Healthy Beverages, skills to grow the medicinal plants and flowers, and the procedure to create healthy beverages. The main objective of training the N.S.S. Volunteers is to create an opportunity for the N.S.S. Volunteers to share their learning with stakeholders while conducting N.S.S. activities. Every N.S.S. Volunteer must create awareness about the "Low Cost- Locally Available Healthy Beverages in their respective colleges, neighbouring schools, and families. The above activity was conducted by School of Professional Studies, Department of Hospitality Management & Catering Technology as part of the extension activity to N.S.S. Volunteers during the Special Camp organized for 'National Service Scheme (N.S.S.) Golden Jubilee Celebrations 2019'. The workshop was held on 3rd July 2019.

Filing IT Returns

The Income Tax Department, Government of India spends cores of rupees for creating awareness among the citizens of India regarding the filing of income tax. Among the taxes collected direct taxes forms a major component of the government's income. The direct taxes collected amounts to about 11 lakhs crore per year. This is considering the fact that there is still a large population who are unable to pay their taxes due to various reasons.

GCU took the initiative of reaching out people in the neighbourhood to assist them in filing their returns, for free. Usually when this is done by a chartered accountant or any other professional firm a tax payer is charged upwards of Rs.500/- for one individual's returns to be filed. The Department of Commerce and Management studies reached out to 150+ tax payers during a one week campaign.

Blood Donation Camp

The requirement of blood in India is about 13.1 million units per year as per WHO, that's about 1% of the population of India. Various studies have indicated that Indian blood banks on an average has been able to collect only about 9 million units per year. This leaves a huge gap in meeting the Nation's requirement and may cripple the health care system.

GCU Blood donation camps organised have student volunteers contributing about 350-400 units of blood per year. This is about 15% of the student population on the campus. These camps are organised aligning to the National day celebrations of India.

Breast and Cervical Cancer Screening Camp

Brest cancer is one among the most common cancer in Indian women and accounts for 27% of all cancers in Women. About 1 in 28 women are likely to develop breast cancer during their lifetime. In the urban areas the incidence is 1 in 22 as compared to the rural areas where 1 in 60 women develop breast cancer. In India, cervical cancer contributes to approximately 17.5% of all cancers in women.

With this premise GCU conducted awareness workshop for students, faculties and community stakeholders from the neighbourhood to create awareness among them. The camp also taught the participants the procedure to check for breast cancer. Vaginal swab for cervical cancer test were collected and test done for free. The camp reached out to about 1000+ participants.

BEST PRACTICES OF THE DEPARTMENT

School of Sciences - Department of Life Sciences

Title of the Practice:

Research & development - Integration of graduate and postgraduate curricula with research.

Encourage student involvement in research-oriented publications.

Objectives of the Practice

Objectives: Research will encourage all students and faculty members to work on the current areas of investigation and can contribute their knowledge and skills resulting into progress in science. "The objective of research in science is essential to achieve progress in economic growth, social development and environmental protection." Hence in order to inculcate research culture, the department encourages graduate and postgraduate courses with Project works of 2-4 months duration.

Intended outcomes of this "best practice": Research is important because the world faces many problems and science tries to solve them. Research makes our brains think with scientific methods. Scientific research will focus on solving the environmental crisis in a cost-effective way for large businesses. Conducting research is an important component for the development of scientific thinking.

Underlying principles or concepts of this practice: All students and faculty members are exposed to basic research and primary facilities are available which will help us to plan and execute research which is a necessary aspect of the science field.

The Context

The research orientation of the department and the infrastructure favours the faculty members, scholars and students to take up research in the best possible way. Students and faculty members dedicate a quality time to take up Research & Developments assignments. The favourable culture helps the stakeholders to produce quality research leading to good quality publications and contribution to the industry, academia and the research fraternity.

The Practice

At the University, scientific research allows students to deepen their knowledge. Fortunately, many students at GCU give enough importance to this exercise. Scientific research is, first of all actions taken to produce and develop scientific knowledge. The research consists of a rational, organized, and disciplined study. It raises the level of thought, deepened by reflection and criticism of the already opened sites, exploring the reasoning, intuition and experience of the unknown areas of our universe. This approach has moreover, created moments which arises the formulation of hypotheses and new approaches that will help to renew approaches and methodologies, and make innovations. The research has a primary function in formulating new questions and the production of new knowledge; it helps create the future or to mark the progress of all areas of knowledge, as well as the dissemination and sharing these advances with the company. It is both a way to train people to discover the world and understanding, and a source of technological and social innovations. The research therefore requires communication and dissemination of results.

Evidence of Success

Presently research is an ongoing process in Life Sciences department. Each faculty is involved in research and working towards sanctioned projects. All faculty members have good number of publications in impact factor and Peer reviewed Journals. Further steps are taken to improve receiving funded projects. Most of the faculty have received award such as best project of the year, best paper presentation, best oral presentation which will encourage the faculty and student to involve in research and improve their contributions towards research.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required

Grants are limited.

Scientific collaborations need to be increased.

Diverse research areas to be targeted.

Culinary Studio

Objectives of the Practice

The main objective of culinary studio is to provide a platform to the students to learn hospitality business while actually at work. It helps develop interpersonal skills, communication and team work ability of the students that would be useful to every candidate in professional as well as personal life. Also it improves the entrepreneurial skills of the student.

The Context

The University recognizes the need to expose the students to industry work culture through continuous interaction and hands on training during the course. The exposure to real time situations and environment gives them the sense of being a professional. Practice, use of equipment and adaptability of newer technology is possible through industrial exposure. Being a global industry, it is necessary to make students ready for international career and adapt to multicultural work environment. It is also imperative to go hand in hand with industry; faculty members are also encouraged to improve understanding of latest trends, techniques and procedure. This is inculcated in the University activities. Interaction with industry also helps the University in enriching and complementing the curriculum.

The Practice

Student's personal development: Students are encouraged to make groups and put up their own stalls. Promotion of the event is done by the students alone. Students handle their stalls throughout the day and try to attract maximum crowd. The dominating attraction are the food stalls that serve a huge variety of foods and non-alcoholic drinks from kebabs to street foods, from Pizzas, Pastas to Cakes and Pastries and Bakery delicacies. The group of students work in team coordinating with each other to make the event a successful one in terms of hospitality, quality, learning experience, profitability, coordination and most importantly team work development.

Evidence of Success

Students have successfully acquainted with global practices in hospitality industry. Students have learned to think out of the box and present themselves with more confidence. One can easily appreciate the professional touch that the students have obtained after the event. Many of the students have been coming up with their own business plans to set up small food outlets, juice corners and so on. They have adopted the professional work culture with improved technical and interpersonal skills. They have become confident and more adaptive to latest hospitality practices and shown ease of working in different situations. The placements in best hotel brands in India and abroad is witnessed in recent years. Culinary Studios have helped in improving the curriculum & knowledge base.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required

Any event has its positives as well as negatives. Annual Food Festivals is no exception. It had few negative points as well as many positive aspects also. To list a few negative points which were turned into learning opportunities are lack of communication and coordination, punctuality, mismanagement of certain resources like fund etc. Overall, the event was a very good learning experience to students as they learned from the problems they encountered also learned to gather funds.

Multi-sectoral industry visit based learning and knowledge sharing

Objectives of the Practice

An Industrial visit is an essential component in the teach-learning process and every student after completion of their studies eventually will become an integral part of this ecosystem, as an employee or an employer.

A broad perspective of various types of business and how they function and thrive in the real world is essential. Every concept learnt in the classroom is connected and related during an Industrial visit.

This concept intends to re-look at the conventional form of industrial visit to more organized and goal-oriented visits to ensure an effective learning process. It also brings about a perspective of Knowledge dissemination.

The specific objective is that the students get an opportunity to visit multiple sectors, have a focused industrial visit and an opportunity to present and share their learning.

Challenges faced in the conventional method of operation

- Low level of engagement during the visit.
- Little or no learning experience.
- Mindset and attitude of going on a picnic rather than an educational tour.
- Increases herd mentality among students blocking self-instigated thinking.
- A high span of control for the Faculty member accompanying.
- The concept intends to address the following:
 - The monotony of the type of company or industry visited
 - Ideal batch size of students
 - Ascertaining learning benefits for students
 - Efficient use of Institutional resources

The Practice

Conventional understanding:

Industrial visits are an eye-opener for students who are either studying management or a job-specific course. The objective behind such visits is to lessen the gap between classroom lessons and practical working environment. When a student visits the industry his decision of what he wants to become and his career choice strengthens. A college can organize two kinds of industry visits, with the permission and cooperation of the companies. One would be a half a day trip where students get an overview of the industry and the work environment. The other kind would be more of an industry or organization study where students get to spend a few days in an organization and learn about the working of each department and each personnel in detail. This would help him make better decisions regarding his line of career.

Importance of an Industrial Visit

- Helps a student gain first-hand information about the industry, organization and the work environment
- Helps them relate to classroom lessons better
- Provides an insight into the real working conditions of an industry thus helping students make the right decision
- They get guidance and mentoring in their field once they decide on what they want to pursue
- Gives them insight into their future
- Builds a relationship between industries and institutes
- Helps organizations create brand awareness
- Helps students build interpersonal and communication skills
- Makes them less nervous about their career and gives them more clarity
- Helps them understand the do's and don't's of industry practices

Industry visits sensitize students to the practical challenges an industry or organization faces every day. It also helps students plan. Encourages them to give in their inputs, ideas, feedback and suggestions on what they perceive of not only the tour but the organization as well. This exercise will get them job-ready and prepared for the real world before they hit the ground running. It also sensitizes them to the working conditions of the lower rung of workers so that they learn to appreciate every bit of effort put in by every worker, even the janitor for instance and teach them to respect workers and be better leaders in the future.

Uniqueness

- A student gets a chance to visit at least 10 different industry sectors during their period of study.
- Students are divided into small batches of 15 students.
- After the return from the visit, the students in groups of 5 share their experience through a presentation to their peers and engage in a discussion.

Evidence of Success

- The concept was well appreciated by the students and the companies.
- The students were able to interact with the personnels in the company more effectively.
- The students were able to see and hear processes and procedures better rather than being left out at the end of the crowd.
- The students were able to ask specific questions.
- Small numbers were easy for the company to handle and provide access to constrained areas in case of a large crowd
- The faculty members were able to monitor the students closely and ensure discipline
- Where ever able to get hands-on where ever possible and allowed by the company without fear of losing a chance or delays.
- The students were able to discuss and reproduce their learning with their peers more effectively.
- The students gained a chance to pick and choose the types of industries/companies they wanted to visit.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required

- The concept requires intensive and close monitoring of groups to ensure that every student gets a chance.
- The number of companies to gain permission from substantially increased.
- Matching the time allocation from the company to the academic calendar and time table was a challenge.
- Constant follow-up with companies for schedule/cancellation/rescheduling of appointments.

Model Exhibition

Objectives of the Practice

- To bring out the talents among students and provide them a platform and opportunity to exhibit their creation.
- To break the notion that a computer science student is just confined to a computer.
- showcase the diversity of involvements and daily life interventions possible by a Computer science graduate.

Context and Challenges

Computer science students traditionally tend to be engrossed in the programme and development of system components. There are several instances when the students who are talented and brilliant fail to interact with people and express their ideas and its influences on common man's life.

Challenges to overcome

Inhibition of expression
Delay in identification of talent
Practical use case scenario of a process / innovation
Lack of presentation skills

The Practice

Students identify various areas of interest in computer science and bring out their creation in a team. They prepare a working model and place it on display for critical evaluation. The entire project is monitored by a faculty member.

Evidence of Success

The students who have gone through this process have shown to have built confidence and have expressed the following:

- An opportunity to reach an audience with distinct interests
- Creates awareness and develop relationships and people skills
- Confidante to Provide product demonstrations
- Ability to gather competitive intelligence
- Determines and stimulates needs of people

- Innovate and introduce a new product
- Convince and persuade project approvals
- Improve self-image
- Deal with critical questions and comments
- Understand the viability of a product

Problems Encountered and Resources Required

Hesitation among students to take the leap of innovation. Budgetary constraints as certain components are expensive and may have to take loss of incompatible or component loss during prototyping. Perseverance and patience to complete the task.

School of Professional Studies - Department of Fashion & Apparel Design

Title of the Practice

Designs with social impact

Objectives of the Practice

The concept of fashion design envisaged in a social context and practical dress designing. The students are trained to identify various professions and people from day today living circumstance and contemplate on comfortable, practical, green and affordable clothes for them.

Context and Challenges

The fashion world is often associated with glamour and luxury, and seldom seen as something that is more basic in nature. Even though this notion has transformed over the years there are very few designers and professionals who actually design practical fashion.

Challenges to overcome:

Mindset about fashion
Use of impractical design
Faulty selection of materials
Wrong understanding of eco-design

The Practice

The students identify various job requirements at the grassroots level and design clothing that could make their work more efficient and effective. They take up already conceived designs and improvise them to adapt to the local needs and demands. This is done in pairs as a project mentored by faculty members.

Evidence of Success

Students start to develop a keen eye for observation and reasoning of practicality for every design that they create. The blend of creativity and use of practical design techniques have been lauded at several fashion forums. The students understand that fashion is not just mix and match of colors and fancy shapes but it should also be accessible and useable.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required

Several challenges were faced while implementing this concept including breaking the mindset of students and persuading them to look at fashion in a new light. For many, transformation of ideas, to drawings on paper and final creation of product came across as real challenge. The students tend to drop the projects if not closely monitored and mentored.

Event media coverage planning

Objectives of the Practice

To enable students to learn the nuances of planning a media coverage using all the mediums i.e., print, visual, online, radio effectively to reach out to the stakeholders within and outside the campus.

Context and Challenges

This was introduced to overcome the timidness of a fresh graduate while entering the real life media production houses and show certain level of acquaintance of handling media coverage projects in the industry.

Challenges that are taught to overcome:

Ineffective Pre-event Media publicity
Ill planned social media campaigns
Poor use of media production equipment
Lack of acquaintance of the guests and personalities expected at the event

The Practice

Students are divided into multiple groups and assigned with specific responsibilities in pairs. Every group reports to a mentor faculty who would provide them with instructions and guidance. Every activity planned is sent to a professional to review and comment. The reviewed and approved plan is executed by the student.

Evidence of Success

Students started to evolve a sense of confidence as there is a preparation phase involved and an external professional review that enhances perspective.

It is seen that the students after being involved in 4 -5 well planned and reviewed media coverage activities display an exceptionally high adaptability to perform those tasks they are trained at when there is a pressing situation and short notice. This definitely showcases the increase in the confidence level and courage to face contingencies.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required

As event planning and media management can be very dynamic in nature with several changes during the course of planning and on the day of the event, the entire process can be a stressor for students and faculty members. To match the industry standard operation protocols at the academic or campus levels may at times seem too difficult.

School of Health Sciences - Department of Physiotherapy

Title of the Practice

Multimodal teaching learning process.

Objectives of the Practice

Physiotherapy is a skill-based health care profession, students of Physiotherapy are taught affective, cognitive and psychomotor skills by addressing different types of learners such as visual, auditory and kinesthetic learners. Objective of this practice is to enhance knowledge and hands on skills of students with human touch. Students need to effectively communicate and bring out patients' potential problems and relate their issues with basic understanding of clinical reasoning and also it is essential to disseminate the available information to educate patients for prevention and precaution as required to maintain health. Goal setting and intervention are the two main outcomes of the program which will be achieved by this practice.

The Context

Categorizing learners is the foremost important task as some are visual learners and others are auditory or kinesthetic learners, so the curriculum is developed keeping in mind practical, theory and clinical training which gives equal importance. In multimodal teaching or training methods, delivery of contents done by lecture, online educational resources such as video and reading content are shared. Case studies and real time simulation practice by model demonstration is adapted to enhance practical skills before practicing on patients, clinical training and hospital postings to improve the psychomotor skills of students. Similarly workshops on advanced skill training are conducted on regular basis which would be technically upper hand for our students to beat competition in job market.

The Practice

The main idea of multimodal learning is the effective use of multiple modalities, or delivery methods, in training. Research shows that most training leaders believe offering multiple modalities is vital for training success. Technology enables multimodal learning through mobile apps, e-learning platforms, simulations, practical clinical training and other modalities. It also helps to ensure retention and application by reinforcing content over a longer time period. The process of multimodal training begins with identifying affective, cognitive and psychomotor skill requirements for students for various courses. It is basically Learner centric as students have multiple options to utilize resources that best suit them. We offer training for affective skills enhancement by role play, video presentation and hospital visits. To improve cognitive skills online content, lecture and library research are used and to improve psychomotor, skills simulation, practical classes, hospital training, field visit and camps are done. Overall outcome is measured objectively, if any shortfall if found will be rectified.

Evidence of Success

Students who are trained in multimodal delivery of medical education in physiotherapy are evaluated in different parameters such as continuous internal assessment and end semester examination. The post graduate students obtained 100% result in all semesters and the employability skills are assessed based on the placement record as 100% as the I batch MPT students are placed in various institutions and organizations. Student and parents' feedback found to be effective, if the best practice adopted by the department of physiotherapy hence working well.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required

Clinical training needs extensive infrastructure such as arrangements with several hospitals. As of now we are utilizing available hospital beds for clinical and practical training. There is a need to increase the clinical facility to accommodate BPT and MPT students.

The Context

- This practice has been made to all students to understand that they can freely open up to a counsellor when in distress.
- This is used to help students understand the subject matter of Psychology better and make teaching-learning fun.

The Practice

- Counsellors who train students in counselling.
- The counsellors help keep up with the interests of the students.

Evidence of Success

- Counselling center is a must in all educational institutions. It is needed for students in distress to portray what they are feeling openly. NAAC and UGC also recommend the same. We have faced a lot of difficulties running it successfully as we do not have a proper set up to keep the center going.
- Innovative teaching practices are a mandate to keep up with the new generation. Students need to be taught with interesting methods failing which their attention span will be affected greatly. It has been a challenge for teachers also to update themselves and teach students bearing everything in mind.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required

- We have successfully counselled more than 40 students in the last 1 year and 15 cases have been recommended for help from outside. We require a counselling center with basic amenities to keep this going.
- We have come up with more than 10 innovative teaching practices in the last year. We look forward to coming up with more unique practices in the next academic year.

Once the entire preparations are complete and approved the student presents this in a special setting where in the student is seated before an audience, under a spot light, does an introduction of the piece, reads the piece and then narrates the thoughts in their own perspective.

Evidence of Success

The students started developing confidence in expressing their thoughts, doing a detailed literature review, their understanding of various writers and their styles improved substantially.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required

Identifying the right work to be presented was a challenge. In certain instances there may be very few materials available to do a research.

3 DECADES OF EDUCATIONAL EXCELLENCE

An institution's age and its constant innovation coupled with how its students are placed professionally defines its credibility. Garden City College of Science and Management Studies established in 1992 has a legacy of dispensing quality education and the result of this yeomen service, today it's a University.

Garden City Education Trust was founded in the year 1992 by Dr. Joseph V.G. He has over 35 years of Experience in the field of education. The Trust was formed in 1992 with the support of likeminded educationists like Late Prof Shivarudrappa – former Dean, Dharwad University, Late Dr Hanumanthappa former Vice Chancellor, Bangalore University, Prof V.B. Coutinho, former Vice Chancellor, Gulbarga University and Prof Rame Gowda, former Vice Chancellor of the Karnataka State Open University. The Trust was established to set up Centres for educational excellence that would accept only qualitative practices nurturing students with value based education.

The Trust began its operations with Garden City College of Science and Management Studies offering programs under the Bangalore University affiliation. The institution went on to bag the highest grade of "A" when assessed by the National Assessment and Accreditation Council – the premier accreditation body under the UGC. The Institutions is ISO 9001:2008 and ISO 14001:2004 certified as well.

In 2013, the benign Government of Karnataka passed the "Garden City University Act", considering the merits of the Garden City Education Trust to set up Garden City University.

Dr Joseph V.G. is an educationist par excellence who at a very young age proposed to bring forth qualitative changes in the Education scenario in India. He strongly believed that the rudimentary system should be formatted with a complete practical approach and has to be inclusive giving everyone an equal opportunity for higher studies.

The pillar behind Garden City University (GCU) – Dr. Joseph V.G.

The result of his dream has been the emergence of one of the most sought after educational institutions in the country today – The Garden City Group of Institutions. As its Founder Chairman the group has crossed several milestones surging ahead aligning with his signature line of creating Dreamers, Achievers and Winners in each of these institutions. His passion for education can be seen at all his institutions which have created a niche for themselves in not being elementary learning centres. His emphasis is always to create individuals with practical thinking. He has inspired several thousand students from across the globe who have been nurtured under the banner of the Garden City Group of Institutions.

The group presently comprises of:

Garden City College of Science and Management Studies

Garden City University headquartered in Bangalore

Devamatha Central School, Banaswadi, Bangalore- 560043

Devamatha Central School, Vidyanarayapura, Bangalore- 560097

The avenues for an average aspirant of today desiring to pursue higher education in India are multifold. Aspirants have to choose from among State run Universities, Central Universities, Deemed to be Universities, Autonomous Institutions and State Private Universities.

Each of the options cited above has its due strengths and weakness although each route takes an aspirant to the same destination which is to obtain a degree that is recognized both in India and the world over. Although India produces the highest number of intellectual capital, it has one of the lowest Gross Enrolment Ratio (GER) in Higher Education among the BRIC nationS/Nw with the Government taking the stand of reaching 30 per cent GER by 2020, the requirement of Indian Universities stands at 1900 from the existing 800. India needs Universities in large numbers and the Government although has increased the expenditure on education, will not be able to meet the target unless quality State Private Universities take the lead and responsibility.

Garden City University is one such University established under the Karnataka State Act 47 of 2013 which will re-shape the education scenario in India by enhancing the learning avenues and building a robust dissemination of education. The main object of Garden City University is to support, promote and undertake advancement of an innovation in University Education leading up to and including Post Graduate, Doctoral and Post-doctoral courses in Technical, Health, Management, Life Sciences, Agriculture, Law and allied sectors and make provisions for research, advancement and dissemination of knowledge including consultancy in these fields.

The Garden City University will be the part of a larger ecosystem in order to find better placements and hence a host of activities and projects surrounding the University will supplement the professional growth of its students. The Garden City Township that houses the University is a pride project of East Bangalore.
